"Product that will change education and help American students become competitive. Co-workers are incredible people." – Current employee (www.glassdoor.com)

We are looking for Virtual Instructors to join our team of education professionals. We deliver exceptional academic support through our student support model that provides student-centered monitoring, coaching, mentoring, and teaching. Your experience teaching in a specific subject area along with your proficiency in technology will ensure your success in this dynamic role. If you are looking for a role in education where you can work from home, and you meet our qualifications, we want to talk to you! Apply today!

Job Requirements
As a Virtual Instructor, you must meet the following requirements:
- State teacher certification in core subjects, world language, business, technology, art, health, or physical education, grades 6-12
- 3 years' experience as a teacher, preferred
- 1 year experience teaching in subject area
- Fingerprint clearance card
- Technically proficient and the ability to learn new technology and online systems quickly

Job Responsibilities
As a Virtual Instructor, you will be responsible for facilitating curriculum and coursework developed and provided by Edgenuity from the comfort of your own home office in this work from home position. Course development is not required.

Additional responsibilities of the Virtual Instructor include:
- Orienting students to their coursework and communicating course and school requirements (includes communicating via chat, phone, e-mail, and web conferencing systems)
- Providing instruction via chat, phone, e-mail, and virtual white board systems
- Augmenting course content in the form of remediation, modification, and enrichment by choosing and implementing appropriate learning strategies
- Grading assigned student work and entering grades into an online grade book in a timely manner; providing appropriate feedback to students
- Conducting 1-to-1 tutoring sessions through web conferencing and virtual white board technologies
- Communicating with parents, school administrators and clients
