CONCEPTUAL DOPPELGÄNGER

Taika Waititi is a comedian and filmmaker. He is a particularly Kiwi version of said professions. He is a beloved version of aforementioned passions. He is a Maori and Jewish version of previously touched on talents (celebrated for). He is the original manager character from Flight of the Conchords. He is a singularly non-singular Kiwi comedian who also paints and uses a camera to capture things and enslave them for purposes of artistic expression. He is surprising. He is a joy. He is loved. With good reason. He is worth enjoying in any way possible as often as possible.

VITI VINI Sustainably farmed, off of "Bridge" a single vineyard located in the heart of the Wairau Valley and that borders the Wairau River. Fruit was picked early, at 22 Brix to ensure lower alcohol and freshness. 80% was direct pressed and 20% had 12 hours of skin contact. The juice was settled overnight before being racked into tank with lots of solids for fermentation at cool temperature to retain fruity esters. Post fermentation the wine was racked off its gross lees and left to mature on fine lees for a month or so. Bottled early to lock in freshness. Bone dry and with an indisputably versatile style intended for consumption all year. Why limit yourself? When in doubt, drink Rose.

PRODUCER OCD is the wine that launched Communal Brands. Inspired by Melissa Saunders' obsessive nature about wine, her friend and business partner Chris Antista, created a wine in her honor: OCD. She applied said obsessive nature to find the right juice for our eponymous brand, ultimately finding a warm connection in her husband's native New Zealand. The wine is produced by Hunter's, one of the oldest and very best producers in the region. Jane Hunter is a legend and an inspiration to the brand. The name? You'll have to ask the authorities about that ;-).
